About Trainers Meet Trainers (TMT)®

The Background

Trainers Meet Trainers (TMT)® was born as a half-day session on a complimentary basis in 1977 run by a single trainer which attracted more than 40 participants. Subsequent TMT® events continued with a single trainer running the sessions until 1990.

In 1985 the event was addressed by George Webster, then Executive Director of the Institute of Training and Development (UK).

The 1991 TMT® event was organised in collaboration with Malaysian Institute of Management (MIM). TMT® went big with the huge success again in 1993 when it became a 1-day conference. To increase attendance, the fee was deliberately kept low and the quality of sessions high with great speakers. In 1993, there were about 350 participants.

The 1994, our 2-day TMT® attracted almost 600 participants while the 1997 TMT® attracted 1000 participants.

The aim of TMT® was and still is to organise a “meeting” for trainers to network and to introduce trainers to new and novel developments in the field of Human Capital Development. In addition, it is also the aim of the TMT® to help trainers network, share experiences and improve the performance of their organisations. TMT® has been revamped and it is now a 1-day event that is being taken on a road show to different venues in different countries.
